

Fabienne Arimont

Fabienne graduated from the Newark School of Violin Making and Repairing in 2020. Over the course of the time in school she finished six violins. Through her love for experimenting with different varnish and set up techniques, all of them have their own unique look and sound. Being involved with several repair and restoration projects over the past two years also had an influence on her style of making. Doing work experience in Germany and Canada has nurtured her interest in bow repairs and re-hairing. For the future Fabienne hopes to create more stringed instruments with consideration of sustainability and our environment.
